$11,000,000 TO SAVE 11 MILES |

By L. & W.'S NEW ROUTE.

Suffale Will Be Brought Half an Hour Nearer New York and the Big Grades and Curves Between Lake Hopateons and the Water Gap Will Be Eliminated

The Delaware, Lackawanna and Western's w cutoff between Lake Hopatcong, N. J. and the Delaware Water Gap, Pa., for the tion of which contracts are now saing signed, is going to reduce the running time between this city and Buffalo by half an hour and bring Buffalo within 400 miles tence of New York. Besides this it will open up a rich dairying country in Wasten county, N. J., tap an iron deposit gear Roseville, boom suburban real estate and speil some of the most exquisite pastoral cenery in this country.

The present route from Hopatoong to the Cap has curves which make the trip one of about thirty-nine miles. The new route, after running catercorners from Hopstoong to Andover, is thence practically an air line through Warren county to the point where it again converges upon the main system at Slateford, Pa., three miles east of the Gap. The distance will be twenty-eight miles. This eleven mile short cut on the way to Buffalo is going to cost the Lackawanna 811,000,000 all told, which means that the purchase price of the half hour saved on the run figures up to nearly $400,000 a

The most important feature of the construction work is said to be reduction in grade. The present line has a maximum grade of 60 feet to the mile, while the greatest pitch to be encountered on the new cross lots route when it is completed will never be any more than 29 feet to the mile. As the altitude at Hopatoong is 927 feet above sea level, thence descending sharply to but 303' feet at Slateford, this easy grade can be obtained only by a series of allings and cuttings said to be the heaviest and most extensive to be undertaken hereabout in the last decade.

Bout in the las' decade.

For more than three-fifths of its length the new road is going to run along a high embankment sticking up out of the surrounding country like a homesick wall of China. The Pequest fill, in particular, which will run from a point about half a mile east of Andover, across the Pequest valley, to a mile west of Huntsville, is declared by the engineers to be the biggest railroad embankment ever undertaken in America, if not in the world. It will vary in height from 75 to 110 feet, with a general average height of about 90 feet.

Among other engineering wonders to be accomplished is a cutting through half a mile of solid Jersey granite. This cutting, which is near Andover, will go down into the hill for 132 feet and will necessitate the removal of 541,000 cubic yards of rock. There will be two aerial structures 1,000 feet or more in length. The viaduct at Hainesburg will be just 1,000 feet long and the bridge over the Delaware will be 350 feet longer. Both will be of concrete.

The net result of all this bridge building and cutting and banking will be the elimination of 1,540 degrees of curvature in the twack, the abolishment of all grade crossings and tunnels and the establishment of a grade not to exceed one-half per cent, per mile. For twenty-three miles the track will follow an absolute straightaway.

As the layout follows so nearly the principle of railroad building laid down by Char Nicholas when he projected the first Bussian railway on the map with a ruler saturally the cutoff doesn't hit many towns. Three stations will be built, however. The principal one, to be maintained for the convenience of Blairstown, is to be located a mile and a half from that place. There will be another near Johnsonburg and a third at Greensville. For more than three-fifths of its length
